Off for Congress. Washington, Nov. 29.—Congressmen and senators are arriving on every train to be ready for the meeting of congress, which is next Monday.

LOTTERY KNOCKED OUT.

The Kentucky Lottery Gets Its Quicker at the Supreme Court.

Washington, Nov. 29.—A decision handed down today by the supreme court knocks out the Kentucky lottery and closes forever the biggest lottery scheme ever run in Louisville.

Civil Service on Top. Washington, Nov. 29.—An order was today issued by the Secretary of the Treasury which knocks out the spoilsman. The civil service will be upheld.

SUDDEN ATTACK.

Mr. W. C. Lang Quite Ill This Morning.

He Was Prostrated by a Bilious Attack at the Drug Store.

Mr. W. C. Lang, the venerable father of Mayor-elect James Lang, was prostrated about 8 o'clock this morning at the drug store, corner of Broadway and Second streets, by an attack of vertigo, thought to have been produced by biliousness.

Mr. Lang first felt a pain in the shoulder and while his son, Dr. James Lang, was applying liniment, his father fell back unconscious.

Drs. Reichlick and Robertson were called and administered to his needs. Mr. Lang is thought to have been what occasioned his illness this morning. He was carried home and soon began improving.

POPULAR PLAY.

"Ole Olson" at the Opera House Tonight.

The famous comedy "Ole Olson" which appears at the Opera house tonight, is one of the most popular plays before the public. This season's production is the most complete and given this favorite comedy and is playing to crowded houses everywhere. The cast is composed of all the old favorites and nearly all the originals. The music and specialties are new and novel and embrace the gems of the season.

THE LOCAL ROUND-UP.

An Interesting Session of Police Court This Morning—A Change in the City Mail Service.

Sewering Contractor White Returns to the City From Chattanooga—The Chronicle of a Dull Day.

There was a lengthy session of the police court today. Beginning next week, court will begin at 9 o'clock instead of 8:30.

Jesse Potter and Orel Broyles, charged with malicious shooting and malicious assault, was called, and Judge Campbell announced that County Attorney Houser had agreed to continue it until Wednesday. Judge Sanders said he was opposed to continuing the case so much, as it worked a hardship on the witnesses. Mr. Potter was sworn and said that Mr. Hays, one of the eye-witnesses, was ill. The case was then continued until Wednesday and the witnesses present were recognized for their appearance and attachments were issued against several others.

Dick Hart, Henry Fagin and Scott Johnson, charged with drunkenness, and all white, were fined $1 each and costs.

Thomas Ryan, a tramp, was charged with vagrancy, he says he got off a boat and was a little full, and didn't know what he did. Mr. R. C. Caldwell said he was stopped by Ryan, who said he wanted a quarter to get a bed. He afterwards returned and said he said he wanted a quarter and was going to have one or go to jail. Mr. Caldwell thought the latter place was the best for him and had him arrested. He was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness, and the vagrancy charge was dismissed.

Bob McCormick was charged with striking Joe Berry on the head with a stick at Gager's saloon. Berry said somebody hit him on the head, but he did not know who it was. He was ruled unconscious by the jury. Frank Gager, the proprietor, swore that McCormick struck Berry fourteen or fifteen times from behind. McCormick admitted that Berry said he would stick a knife in him, and said when he got a chance he hit him with a stick. He admitted further that Berry was not looking in his direction when he struck him. McCormick is a one-legged boy, and Judge Sanders was prompted to remark that the city had a great deal of trouble with cripples. He was fined $20 and costs.

Mr. Frank Gager then swore that McCormick had threatened to kill him, and that he wanted a peace warrant against him. Judge Sanders then recognized McCormick in the sum of $200 for his good behavior for a period of twelve months toward Gager.

Hun Campbell and Ben Halket, colored, were charged with fighting.

"Are you guilty?" asked the court of Campbell.

"Yes—of protecting myself," replied the prisoner.

"Are you guilty of protecting yourself?" asked the court of Halket.

"No sir," he replied. "I didn't have no chance."

His condition bore him out, as his lips were badly swollen. The evidence showed that both men had knives. The evidence was conflicting and each defendant was fined $20 and costs.

T. J. and Jos. Hollahan, charged with grand larceny were in court, and both sides announced ready for trial. Mr. N. J. Boland, of near Stiles, was present. He is the owner of ten sacks of wheat lost about last July. He said when he hauled his wheat he missed the sacks. He stated that he lives about a mile from the river. He had two samples of wheat, one of his own and another of the wheat found in possession of the prisoners. Experts examined the wheat and said it was not of the same crop, and there was no evidence to connect the men with the theft of Boland's wheat.

The case was left open until tomorrow morning, when the defendants will be placed on the stand. Unless there is found more evidence against them, they will likely be discharged from custody.

The Register, as usual, made a blunder Sunday in its reference to a sleeper accommodations between Louisville and Paducah. There are the same accommodations as heretofore, with the exception that Pullman sleepers have been substituted for home sleepers. They are attached and cut off here when the train arrives just the same as usual.

There are now three sleepers to the fast passenger. In addition to the Cincinnati and New Orleans sleeper and the Louisville and Paducah sleeper, there is now the Evansville and Memphis sleeper, which is attached at Princeton, and is always on the rear of the train.

Two remains of Mr. Eric Bergman, who died Friday at the hospital, were buried yesterday, in Oak Grove, from Undertaker Nance's.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

A Terrible Cyclone Raging in England and on the Continent—Vast Damage Being Done.

Martin Thorn Takes the Stand and Lays the Blame All on Mrs. Nack—Whole Family Asphyxiated.

London, Nov. 29.—A terrible cyclone is raging today in England and in most of Europe. Great damage is reported as having been done.

The Woman Did It. New York, Nov. 29.—Martin Thorn is on the stand today and accuses Mrs. Nack of the murder of Win. Goldensuppe. Thorn's story is not generally believed. Mrs. Nack will be put on the stand to controvert his statements.

Whole Family Dead. New York, Nov. 29.—A whole family, consisting of a man, wife and child, were found asphyxiated this morning in their room in a cheap hotel on the West Side.

Anxiety About Bismarck. Berlin, Nov. 28.—Count William Bismarck has gone to visit his father, the ex-chancellor, at Friedrichsruhe. Despite the optimistic reports that are circulated regarding the health of Prince Bismarck, the deepest anxiety is felt by his family as to his condition. Besides his facial trouble, which is similar to that which Mr. Gladstone is suffering, the prince recently had a most severe attack of rheumatism in the legs.

SENSIBLE WIDOW.

Refused to Marry an English Claimant Until He Produces the Cash.

Compton, Ky., Nov. 29.—A Mr. Benton, who claims to have an interest in an estate in England amounting to several million dollars, has become infatuated with a handsome widow lady of this county, and has promised her $1,000,000 to marry him. She refuses to marry him till his claims in the estate are established. He is 72 years of age.

PEACE OFFERING.

Sent By General Clay to His Child Wife, Who Left Him.

Valley View, Ky., Nov. 28.—A servant from White Hall called at the home of Chell Richardson tonight, where Mrs. Clay is stopping, bringing a basket of provisions from Gen. Clay for Mrs. Clay. It is not known whether he brought a message for Mrs. Clay or not. It is reported here that Gen. Clay is paying board for his wife while at the home of his brother. He has offered to build a house and furnish it for her here if she will return to White Hall.

Killed His Man.

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 29.—Reports have reached here of the killing of Abner Parker in Leslie county by Lew Maynard.

The criminal term of circuit court which begins next Monday, ought not to last long, as the greater portion of the docket is made up of cases continued from the last September term of court. The alleged shoplifters, Pete Griffin, Kid Carroll and the Franks, will get a trial, which they failed to secure at the last term of court. The first Monday in January another civil term will begin, to last eight weeks. Circuit-elect Judge L. D. Hasbards will then preside.

THE I. C.'S NEW TIME CARD

Went Into Effect at Noon on the I. C. Yesterday—Predictions That it Will Not Last.

The Changes in the Runs on the St. Louis Division Other Railroad Notes of Live Interest.

The new schedule on the Illinois Central went into effect yesterday at noon, and the change has already been felt in various quarters.

It is predicted by some railroad men that the present time card will not last long, as the I. & N. has put in a new schedule which reduces the time between Cincinnati and New Orleans two hours or more below the Illinois Central's time. As the U. S. mail contract depends on the quickest time between those two cities, however, it is thought that the Illinois Central will not be long in trying to out do her powerful competitor, and his will necessitate a new schedule.

The crews on the St. Louis division are badly broken up by a change in runs. It is now arranged that none of the conductors are never at home, because most of them reside at Pinckneyville, and Pinckneyville is no longer a terminal.

The two runs are between Paducah and Carbondale, and Carbondale and St. Louis.

Two of the conductors and crews for two weeks do not leave the Carbondale and Paducah run, and are then for one week placed on the other run from Carbondale to St. Louis, never being allowed to stop at Pinckneyville either time.

There is now talk of most of the crews again making their homes here in order that they can be with their families.

Jim Eaves, colored, had his teeth knocked out by a piece of dying brass at Cumberland river, on the Illinois Central, last night. He was brought to the city today and carried to the railroad hospital.

THE OWNER FOUND.

Mr. George T. Alliston, of Bijou Mills, the Man.

Another Warrant Issued Against the Hollahan Brothers Today.

Mr. George T. Alliston, of Bijou Mills, Livingston county, arrived in the city this afternoon and identified the wheat at the city hall as his own, stolen from his warehouse last Sunday night.

Only about twenty bushels in all were found in the possession of the Hollahans, but much more. It is thought, has been stolen. Last night two or three sacks more were stolen from Mr. Alliston's warehouse, and Judge Sanders issued another warrant against the Hollahans this afternoon charging them with stealing Mr. Alliston's wheat.

Death in Graves. Died, at her home near Reez, Ky., Thursday evening, Mrs. Eva, beloved wife of Mr. Charles Blake, a daughter of Mr. C. C. Duggar, of the city. Besides her husband and father she left to mourn her sad and untimely loss, two sisters, Mrs. Henry Sutherland and Mrs. Isaac Dowell of the Boaz neighborhood, also two half brothers, Messrs. W. J. and A. T. Woods, the former of Louisville, Ky., the latter of Graves county, Kentucky. The deceased was an earnest Christian lady, having been a member of the Baptist church for twenty years.

MONDAY, NOV. 29, 1907.

To-night Mayor-elect Lang will be inaugurated and the new council will go into office.

If the council had adopted the Register instead of the present system of sewerage there would probably have been no doubt as to the efficacy of the fifth conductor.

The Populists of Alabama have declared for "absolute paper money" and the leading Populist paper of Idaho has done the same thing. These facts are interesting merely as showing what the platform of 1900 will be that the Democrats will stand for the Populists.

The people of Kansas propose to take no more chances by experimenting with Populistic theories. They have reduced their mortgage indebtedness this year by $30,000,000, and have given a Republican majority of 9,000. Republicanism and prosperity go together, and Kansas knows it.

We have put down a big mark to Governor Bradley's credit. Frank Miller, one of the assassins of Mrs. Gleason, who had been sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary, had the nerve to ask for a pardon. The governor not only refused his request but added that the punishment was not severe enough, and the governor was exactly right.

As a Thanksgiving present, President George Gould, of the Missouri railroad system, advanced salaries all along the line 10 per cent. The advance dates back from November 1, effects 20,000 employees and will result in an additional expenditure of $400,000 a year. In view of this action of President Gould it will be rather hard to convince those 20,000 railroad men that times are not improving.

The attitude of the administration in the Cuban matter ought to satisfy nearly every one. While the President is advising patience and moderation, and wishes to give Spain another chance, the Secretary of the Navy is making vast purchases of ordnance stores, or in other words is preparing for war with all possible haste and regardless of expense. While the President desires peace, he proposes to be not unprepared for war.

The Spanish cabinet has made public its plan of autonomy for Cuba, and the result is disappointment to the friends of peace, both in Cuba and at Washington. The plan is home rule in name but not in fact. Spain has the final utterance on all important questions. But even this plan, as unsatisfactory as it is, might have a chance of being adopted if the Cubans would believe that Spain will keep her word. To a Cuban any Spanish promise is a glass for treachery.

The Register is out with another melancholic rehearsal of sewerage woes. The disquisition is based on the inspection arranged for tomorrow, and to emphasize it, is simply that the Republican council and city officers have fixed things up to go down and impose on the credulity of a much abused community by making a successful test out of an unsuccessful sewerage system, which the Democratic administration might be totally unable to do. Verily, we Republicans must be wonderful prestidigitators.

It is a little curious that those who protested most loudly against the Dingley protective tariff should be the first to send a commission to Washington to plead for reciprocity and a general understanding by which trade relations under the new law should be made as compared with those under the old law. The Canadian government, in sending its chief official to Washington to open the way for negotiations in this line, showed that all of its complaints about our tariff and its proposed retaliation were only for effect.

At the recent election Hamilton county, in which Cincinnati is located, was carried by a fusion ticket containing nine Democratic and five Republican members of the legislature. There has been some doubt as to how the Republican fusionists vote on joint ballot for United States senator. They have decided, to vote for the Republican ticket which will make the eighty Republicans.

Democrats on joint ballot for Senator. This makes the reelection of Senator Hanna as easy as rolling off a log. This is no off year in Ohio.

The Register, a hybrid paper with little politics and less principle, arrogates to itself the authority to say what the new council will do with the state of city officers nominated at the late caucuses, and to intimate that the Sec's several statements of facts on different occasions since the caucuses were misrepresentations. The Register has yet to learn that it can never take any part in local politics, for it has not the political respect of Republicans, Democrats, Populists or "mugwump."

It has tried to carry water on both shoulders, in each hand, with one paid on top of its wooden head, and the result is the difficulty of the first has sadly disturbed its political equilibrium. Hence it is not in the confidence of any party, and knows nothing about what the new Democratic council intends to do. Neither does the Sec, nor has it ever claimed to know. Always it has prefaced its statements by the words "it is said," or something similar, and it will not be long until developments will reveal the correctness or incorrectness of its statements. The Sec has no "favorite" in the selection of these municipal officers. Politically speaking, there is no choice between rotten potatoes. The new councilmen know who it is that are not satisfied with the state, and doubtless they are by this time tired meeting them on every corner. They are well aware of the fact that the people of Paducah expect good city officials, and they are to use their own judgment next month in saving for their constituents whether or not they deem all these nominees the proper men to serve the people in their respective capacities, and draw pay from the pockets of the taxpayers.

The Register has been painfully silent on the selection of the state, as has been the other grandstand Democratic paper, until yesterday, because it knows the real condition of things, as well as everybody else knows it.

But then, to be serious, haven't the Republicans anything to say in this affair? According to the mongrel Moring Misanthrope itself, the "better element" of the Republican party voted for Dr. Lang, the little man with the big office, and they ought to get some action for their money.

A WOMAN TO THE RESCUE.
Spain has reversed her whole attitude toward Cuba, and if the facts as given by the Madrid correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat can be relied upon, Queen Christina is alone responsible for the sudden change. Queen Christina is regent during the minority of her son the boy king. Thus far since the death of her husband, the Queen Regent has done merely as her father-in-law advised, though it is said that she has disapproved of the method in which the war has been carried on in Cuba. For twelve years since the death of the King she has left everything to her ministers. Her sudden change is the most remarkable feature in the present Spanish crisis.

Queen Christina has diagnosed the situation; she believes that Spain's only chance to save Cuba is to give the United States no cause for later intervention. Hence she is doing everything she can to remove the cause for such intervention. This is the keystone of her policy—that and consideration of humanity—for she is a kind-hearted woman, and fully shares the indignation which is felt in the United States with regard to the shocking butcheries and atrocities perpetrated during the Weyler regime in Cuba. It was she who directed the recall of Gen. Weyler in the teeth of the opposition of the minister of war and of the majority of the cabinet, who were against the policy of swapping horses while crossing a stream. It was she again who personally appointed Capt. G. N. Lilanco, the trusted chief of her military household, to the governor-generalship of Cuba, as the only soldier capable of putting into execution her policy of conciliation and humanity.

It was the Queen, too, who personally gave orders for the release of nearly 200 anarchists confined in the terrible Montjuich prison at Barcelona, after having caused a private inquiry to be made by her chaplain, who is well acquainted with Barcelona; and it is the Queen Regent, finally, who, purely in her own account, and without taking into consideration the wishes or the views of the cabinet, gave orders during the past week for the liberation of the Competitor prisoners. The cabinet had decided that they were to be court-martialed and condemned to death, and that they were then to be pardoned as a special compliment and act of graciousness to the United States. The Queen, however, declined to tolerate any such proceedings, and, without consulting the ministers, and while the court-martial was in the act of being organized, she called direct to Lilanco, stating that she had pardoned the five Competitor men, and she had pardoned the fifty Republicans.

And now as the last report of the Queen Regent, who is endeavoring to hold Cuba for Spain and the throne for her son, is the plan of autonomy for Cuba. The plan has been made public, but it is too late. Cuba will not accept. The war will continue. At last the United States will be compelled to interfere and Cuba will be lost to Spain forever.

"HOSS APIECE"

The Perseverant Walter Gets Even with the Impertinent Barber.

"Pork and beans? Yes, sir. Anything else?"

"No."

The waiter in the Madison street restaurant filled the order with alacrity.

"Did you say coffee, sir?" he asked, as he placed the pork and beans before the hungry guest.

"No," replied the latter.

"You'll find our coffee very nice, sir."

"This bread and butter goes with the pork and beans, doesn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"And this glass of water?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Well, that's all I want."

"Yes, sir. Like to try a cup of our chocolate?"

"No. If I want anything else, I'll call for it."

The waiter stopped back, but returned presently to ask:

"Wouldn't you like to have me bring you some of our home-made coffee? It's the best in the country."

"How about roast turkey with stuffing?"

"Don't want any."

"It's first-class."

"That's all right. I don't want it."

"I'll tell you, sir, I like our roast beef and browned potatoes."

"Did you hear me say that if I want anything else I would call for it?"

"Yes, sir."

The waiter stopped back again, but a few moments returned to the attack.

"Excuse me for saying so, my friend, but you look as if you might be needing some kind of game. Suppose you try our jackpots on toast."

"Great Scott! Don't you reckon I know what I want?"

"Yes, sir. Our jackpots are fresh and good. Everybody needs to eat game once in a while. Kind of tones up the system."

"I told you I don't want any."

"Yes, sir. But don't you think this time of year, or we'd have some rabbit. Rabbits are about as good as wild game, though. Like to try a boiled squab on toast?"

"I'd like to eat my pork and beans in peace. Bring me some more water, will you?"

"Yes, sir. Shall I bring you some lead tea?"

"Not any lead tea."

"It's very fine."

"Don't want it."

"It's good for some people. Tones up the system."

"That's all right. Bring me that water, will you?"

"Yes, sir."

He went away and returned in an incredibly short space of time.

"Here's your water," he said, "but I think you'll find our lead coffee mighty fine."

The guest made no reply.

"Better let me bring you some lead coffee, sir."

"When I want any lead coffee or anything else I'll let you know."

"Ever try any of our steamed mushrooms?"

"No, and I don't want to try any of your steamed mushrooms, either."

"You needn't be afraid of them, sir. They're all right. We guarantee them, and there ain't any better in the United States."

"I don't."

"Some people, you know, are afraid of mushrooms. Ours are selected with great care. The man we get our mushrooms from is an expert. He takes 'em scientifically."

"Say, do you know you're a confounded nuisance?"

"I hope not, sir. I'm only trying your own way of doing business on you."

"What do you mean?"

"You run a barber shop on State street, don't you?"

"Yes. What of that?"

"You have the chair next to the front door, I think?"

"Yes."

"Well, I went to your shop last Saturday to get a shave. You shaved me. You told me I ought to have a shampoo. You said my hair needed singeing. You wanted to know if I hadn't better have some tonic or bay rum. You wanted to sell me a special shaving mug and brush. You lathered me every minute you were shaving me, and I said to myself that if I ever got a chance at you I'd even up things. I didn't expect you quite so soon, though. Say, we're about even, ain't we?"

"Well, I'm a little more than even when I tell your bosses about your dog-eared impudence."

"I guess you won't do that. There's a dozen of us that get shaved at your shop. You go to making any trouble, and you'll lose the lot of us. You'd better take your medicine like a gentleman, are you? Well, come again. I'll give you all right next time."—Chicago Tribune.

Botanic Blood Balm is the result of forty years' experience of an eminent, scientific and conscientious physician. Send stamp for book of wonderful cures, and learn which is the best remedy. Beware of substitutes said to be "just as good" and buy the long-tested and old reliable Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.). Price only $1.00 per large bottle.

EXPECTED AN ENTIRE CURE.
For over two years I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism, affecting both shoulders to such an extent that I could not put my coat on without help. The use of six bottles of Botanic Blood Balm, B. B. B., effected an entire cure. I refer to Rev. W. W. Wadsworth, proprietor Coweta Advertiser, and to all merchants of Newman.

"HOSS APIECE"

The Perseverant Walter Gets Even with the Impertinent Barber.

"Pork and beans? Yes, sir. Anything else?"

"No."

The waiter in the Madison street restaurant filled the order with alacrity.

"Did you say coffee, sir?" he asked, as he placed the pork and beans before the hungry guest.

"No," replied the latter.

"You'll find our coffee very nice, sir."

"This bread and butter goes with the pork and beans, doesn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"And this glass of water?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Well, that's all I want."

"Yes, sir. Like to try a cup of our chocolate?"

"No. If I want anything else, I'll call for it."

The waiter stopped back, but returned presently to ask:

"Wouldn't you like to have me bring you some of our home-made coffee? It's the best in the country."

"How about roast turkey with stuffing?"

"Don't want any."

"It's first-class."

"That's all right. I don't want it."

"I'll tell you, sir, I like our roast beef and browned potatoes."

"Did you hear me say that if I want anything else I would call for it?"

"Yes, sir."

The waiter stopped back again, but a few moments returned to the attack.

"Excuse me for saying so, my friend, but you look as if you might be needing some kind of game. Suppose you try our jackpots on toast."

"Great Scott! Don't you reckon I know what I want?"

"Yes, sir. Our jackpots are fresh and good. Everybody needs to eat game once in a while. Kind of tones up the system."

"I told you I don't want any."

"Yes, sir. But don't you think this time of year, or we'd have some rabbit. Rabbits are about as good as wild game, though. Like to try a boiled squab on toast?"

"I'd like to eat my pork and beans in peace. Bring me some more water, will you?"

"Yes, sir. Shall I bring you some lead tea?"

"Not any lead tea."

"It's very fine."

"Don't want it."

"It's good for some people. Tones up the system."

"That's all right. Bring me that water, will you?"

"Yes, sir."

He went away and returned in an incredibly short space of time.

"Here's your water," he said, "but I think you'll find our lead coffee mighty fine."

The guest made no reply.

"Better let me bring you some lead coffee, sir."

"When I want any lead coffee or anything else I'll let you know."

"Ever try any of our steamed mushrooms?"

"No, and I don't want to try any of your steamed mushrooms, either."

"You needn't be afraid of them, sir. They're all right. We guarantee them, and there ain't any better in the United States."

"I don't."

"Some people, you know, are afraid of mushrooms. Ours are selected with great care. The man we get our mushrooms from is an expert. He takes 'em scientifically."

"Say, do you know you're a confounded nuisance?"

"I hope not, sir. I'm only trying your own way of doing business on you."

"What do you mean?"

"You run a barber shop on State street, don't you?"

"Yes. What of that?"

"You have the chair next to the front door, I think?"

"Yes."

"Well, I went to your shop last Saturday to get a shave. You shaved me. You told me I ought to have a shampoo. You said my hair needed singeing. You wanted to know if I hadn't better have some tonic or bay rum. You wanted to sell me a special shaving mug and brush. You lathered me every minute you were shaving me, and I said to myself that if I ever got a chance at you I'd even up things. I didn't expect you quite so soon, though. Say, we're about even, ain't we?"

"Well, I'm a little more than even when I tell your bosses about your dog-eared impudence."

"I guess you won't do that. There's a dozen of us that get shaved at your shop. You go to making any trouble, and you'll lose the lot of us. You'd better take your medicine like a gentleman, are you? Well, come again. I'll give you all right next time."—Chicago Tribune.

Pure, Fresh Corn Meal

Made of select corn.

All manufactured and for sale by the undersigned.

Second-hand flour barrels, our own preferred, bought for cash at our corner shop across the street.

We pay the highest cash price for wheat and corn. We also sell corn, bran and chicken feed and exchange any and everything in our line for wheat or corn.

Come to see us, or communicate with us. Street No. 220, South First, Telephone No. 356.

We spend our money at home for the raw material. Let us have some of it back for the manufactured article, so that we can continue to do business ourselves and at the same time help you. This money we pay out for grain and labor mostly stays in town, and the more our own people consume of our output the more we can make a market for home-grown breadstuffs and home labor. Business makes money circulate, one transaction helps another, and so it passes from hand to hand, and the community is helped. Yours for good times.
